

Architectural elevation drawing of the rear of a house. The drawing shows a brick chimney on the roof, a brick wall with a door, and a downspout. The drawing is a line art representation with some shading to indicate texture and depth.

This architectural drawing shows the front elevation of a single-story brick house. The house features a gabled roof with a central chimney. A dormer window is located on the left side of the roof. The main facade is made of brick and includes a large window on the left and a smaller window on the right. A small porch or entrance is visible on the far right. The drawing is a black and white line art illustration.

VISUAL SCALE 1:100 @ A1

An architectural rendering of a single-story house. The house features a light-colored brick chimney on the left side of the roof. The main body of the house is constructed of light-colored bricks. There are four windows visible: two on the left side of the house and two on the right side. A covered porch with a white railing runs along the right side of the house. The roof is a simple gable design. The entire house is set against a plain white background.
