Additional information to support planning application for satellite dish on the road facing wall of 20 East Street, Crowland.

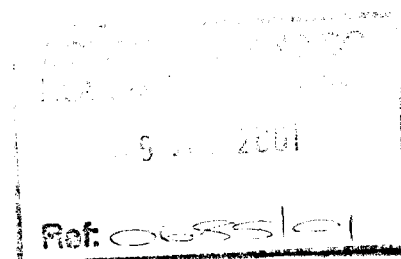

The current satellite dish was mounted to the road facing wall in July 1999 this was necessitated due to the change from analogue to digital systems, the dish used prior to this change had been mounted on an out house in the rear garden of the property, however when the change was made to the digital system the Sky contractors placed the Digital dish in the position then occupied by the analogue receiving dish, the result No signal could be received, trials were then conducted over several weeks by the sky engineers positioning the dish in several alternate positions to the rear of our house with no success, a senior sky engineer was then brought in to resolve the issue, his findings were that due to the positions of, the sky satellite, our property boundaries, and the three storey house next door at No 22 the only receiving position for a dish was on the front wall of our house, we insisted that the dish was positioned in the top Eastern corner of the wall as close to No 22 as possible to reduce the visual impact.

During June and July 1999 we were unable to use our sky satellite systems for some five weeks and incurred costs due to our efforts to keep the dish away from the front of our house.

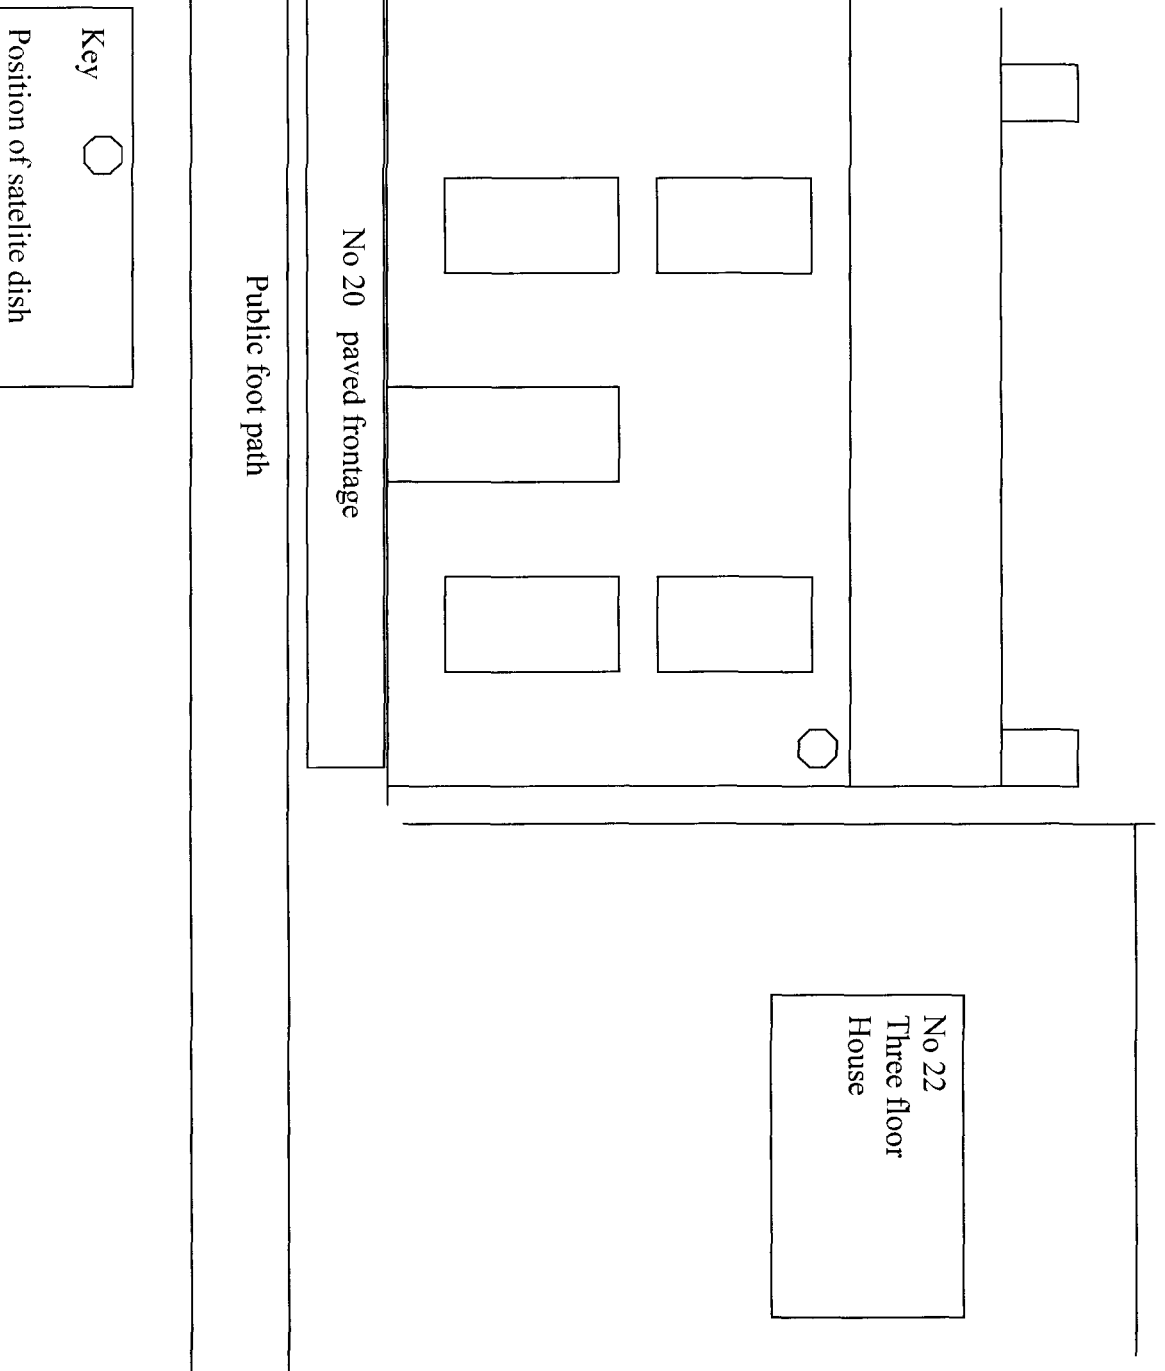

We are very conscious that our house is in a conservation area and try at all times to maintain it in a suitable manner, we were not aware that planning permission was needed for satellite dishes.

Please give due consideration to the above when making your decision regarding our application.
