Quality guaranteed

To choose Classic New Era vertical sliding sash windows is to make an investment in your property and, understandably, you need to be reassured about the quality and service you can expect.

- The Classic New Era window profile is produced by a subsidiary of one of Britain's largest companies, quoted on the London Stock Exchange.
- The profile is produced under a BSI approved quality system to the International ISO 9001 standard.
- The window profile is guaranteed for 10 years trouble free performance, subject to professional installation by a qualified supplier.
- In addition, your local installer will offer supplementary warranties and guarantees covering their workmanship and services. They will also be able to discuss additional services such as finance options.
- Throughout the process, from designing the window to suit your individual home, through manufacturing, to the careful installation of your new window, you can expect the very highest standards of service and customer support to match this high standard window.

The Classic New Era

This beautiful design means homeowners can now enjoy the best of both worlds, truly presenting a property to best advantage, with attractive aspects, whether viewed from the garden or the interior.

Plus all the benefits of trouble free performance, minimal maintenance (just a quick wipe with a damp cloth occasionally); modern mechanisms which are durable, long lasting and simple to replace or repair if things go wrong; and absolutely no re-painting!

Not forgetting the higher energy efficiency, thermal performance and improved noise insulation that a double glazed sealed unit offers compared to conventional single glazing.

Of course, the Classic New Era window is not the least expensive window you can find. If price is the sole criteria then, to be honest, this is not the window for you.

Yet if you are a discerning householder, determined to reflect your standards, isn't your home worth it?

Most homes in Britain can have windows replaced without requiring any form of consent from local or national authorities. However, if your home has listed building status, is in a conservation area, or covered by any other planning regulation or legal covenant, you should consult the appropriate authority to clarify the position before replacing your windows. Your local Classic New Era window installer will be able to provide any information you require.
