Our new sign will create a brand image for the Fish'n Chip industry, which because of its proud independent status, currently has no true commercial symbol.
A common logo outside a shop will retain your individuality whilst enjoying the power of branding. Les Manning from Crewe who is the Seafish Fish & Chip Shop of the Year 2000 winner, firmly believes that branding will help the frying trade.
"It will put the industry on a level and more professional footing. At the moment every shop has a different sign and a different look, but if there was something that everyone could use, the consumers would soon pick up on it."
A specialist company, skilled in designing and producing three dimensional signs, has created this robust and eye-catching external sign. They combine state-of-the-art computer generated graphics with creative technology to produce 3D images which 'come alive'.
