Multiple capsizes in final race

Sailing

The final race of the season took place at Welland Yacht Club on Boxing Day with ten boats taking part.

The wind was a lot stronger than the forecast had suggested but the sun was shining making for good sailing conditions.

The Brass Monkey race is both a stand-alone race and also the last race of the club's Frostbite series so there was a lot at stake as boats jostled for the best starting position.

A sudden increase in wind just before the start caught a number of competitors out with Alan Cox, Helen Boyd, Adam Stabler and Will Stabler all capsizing. Andy Prior, crewed by James Ramp, got the best start in their Lark, followed closely by Gerritt van Haren in his Phantom.

The two boats were neck and neck after the short beat to number one buoy but van

Haren just got inside at the last minute and was first round to start the long run down to number four buoy.

Prior was next, followed by Richard Steadman in his Comet, then Alistair Mitchel in the Laser Radial and Andy Agar in his OK. Next came Adam Stabler, followed by Geoff Tibbs, whilst the remainder of the fleet were playing catch up after the earlier capsizes.

Van Haren extended his lead on the long downwind leg as the Lark struggled with some rigging issues. Mitchell and Steadman both did well to keep in contention with their smaller-sailed boats.

The gusty breeze stuck a number of times on the downwind leg with Boyd making her second of four capsizes just short of Shelly's Bush Corner and Adam Stabler capsizing followed by both Tibbs and Cox.

Positions remained similar as the boats beat back to the club house to end the first lap although the Lark closed the gap on van Haren slightly.

Once round the windward mark, van Haren made good use of the breeze to extend the lead again only for it to close up on the beat back.

Meanwhile both Tibbs and Cox had capsized again with Tibbs having to be rescued. Both boats then retired. Stedman's excellent progress was slowed on the second lap after he ran aground and dropped back behind Agar.

Van Haren crossed the line first, followed by Prior and Ramp and then Mitchell in the Laser Radial, then Agar and Stedman.

Recovering from multiple capsizes Adam Stabler came in ahead of son William who was the last of the finishers.

Things were very close when handicaps were applied with van Haren taking the Brass Monkey Trophy by 30 seconds from Prior and Ramp who were only ten seconds ahead of Mitchell.

These results meant Prior took the Frostbite series from Mark Scourfield in second and Alan Cox in third.

Winner of the Frostbite series, Andy Prior.
