In my initial discussions with the applicant I advised her that I had no objection in principal to the increase in the number of dogs providing that the design and construction of the proposed new kennel block mirrored the existing block and, more importantly, there were no objections on noise grounds from nearby residents.

I have subsequently been contacted by the nearest neighbour who informed me that they regularly experience noise from dog barking. They have confirmed this in their letter of objection. I understand that there has been a further objection from another neighbour on noise grounds.

Following further discussions with my colleagues in the Environmental Protection team I am concerned that any increase in the number of dogs will increase the potential for complaints and therefore I object to this part of the application.

I have no objection to the use of part of the site as a cattery providing there are adequate arrangements for the storage and disposal of waste.
