Hello Rachael

It is only intended for the first six meters of the drive to be of tarmac construction and the remainder to be gravel. This is to provide a hard surface to access the public highway and prevent gravel being transferred upon it . I have unfortunately omitted the line on the drawing between the tarmac and gravel.

It is anticipated that surface water disposal from the dwelling would be by soakaways designed in accord with BRE Digest 365 and approved under Building Regulations.

I trust this clarifies this situation and my apologies for omitting the separating line.

Regards
