

Once you have decided on the appearance you would like your windows to have, there are still more options to widen your choice:

Casement or sash windows help to maintain the traditional appearance of a home without sacrificing any of the convenience of modern opening and security mechanisms.

Now, these windows can look even more traditional with the simple addition of casement horns.

This feature, common on traditional vertically sliding windows, can be added to our modern opening frames without changing their mechanism or function in any way.

State-of-the-art tilt/turn opening windows offer a range of modern features. For example the tilt opening mode allows fresh air in without compromising security, while the full turn function means the entire window can be opened wide and even allow both inside and outside to be cleaned from inside the home - an immediate saving on window cleaning bills as well as an added convenience.
