Dear Sir,

RE: planning application ref H17-0602-15

We would like to make some further observations in support of our application for planning permission for the above land in Surfleet.

Our grandfather built the terraced houses to the immediate right of the site many years ago to house the farm workers in his employ, his intention being to build further houses in the future. He left numbers 63 to 69 in anticipation of this. With the number of workers on the land declining this was not carried out.

Our father then built the houses at no 73 and subsequently the bungalow at No 71, which are to the left of the site, for the farm houses for my elder brother and himself.

We have inherited this plot of land which has the river Glen at the rear and a genuine frontage onto the road with all the utilities running alongside, it is only some 500 yards from the A16 and is in easy reach of all the local amenities.

We the owners all live some distance from the site, my brother-in law in Wigan, my sister in Leicester and myself in South Wales. It is therefore very difficult for us to keep the site from becoming overgrown and an eyesore. Clearly this site cannot be used for any other purpose, being totally surrounded by housing and the river.

The Surfleet Parish Councillors who know the area well also feel it would be an advantage to provide much needed housing on the site rather than it being left derelict.

We hope you will take this information and the original intentions of our family into your considerations.

We look forward to hearing from you in due course.
We remain yours sincerely,

Trevor Rowbottom

Michael Hammond (Brother-in-law)
