Hi Chris,

Further to the conditions imposed under the recent planning approval, I attach a sketch of the entrance gates which, because of the width of the opening, have had to be designed to slide rather than open. Due to the idiosyncrasies of the scanning system, some of the legend has been omitted, but the dimensions are:

Sliding gate width: 21ft, height: 4ft 6ins.
Opening handgate width: 8ft with removable post.

The box rail at the bottom of the gate houses the guide rollers, which slide over the top of the kerb at the rear of the planted area.

Let me know if there is any more information you need.

In the matter of the planting for the bund, I would be grateful if you will let me know who will be judging the suitability of our planting plans, and their qualifications and experience to do so.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Doug
