A small building roughly 6 m x 4 m is shown in the northwest corner of the field on maps between 1905 and 1958. This could have been a non-conformist chapel, although it is not indicated as such on maps and I have been unable to find any record of a chapel here. It is possible that a small barn or outbuilding was used informally as a place of worship. I can find no evidence that barns stood on the site, but these may have been modern temporary structures that were not recorded by the Ordnance Survey.

The proposed development will be at the east end of the site and therefore should not disturb any buried remains of the possible former chapel. Therefore no archaeological input would be required.
