Sutton St James News - Issue 8

Gosh! It's time to say Happy Christmas again! We have been lucky enough to have enjoyed a wonderfully long summer with very few rainy days and like most of you I have spent nearly every weekend out and about enjoying all the events that take place locally. How lucky are we to have so much going on so close to home. But there's no need to lock ourselves indoors now the weather has changed. There are so many lovely places to visit almost on our doorstep so wrapping up nice and warm and enjoying some fresh air can boost our immune systems and blow away any winter blues at the same time. If any of you are organising an event please let me know in time to include it in the Spring magazine and if you have a story to tell then also send that in like the lovely story in this issue by Emma Adair. Thank you Emma I am sure everyone will enjoy it.

Also a competition for best photo of village life. Winner will have his or her photo used on the front cover of the magazine. The next issue is Spring so send in some pictures of our village bursting into spring life. This is your magazine so pictures and stories of interest are most welcome. So Happy Christmas to all our readers and a safe and prosperous new year to you all.

PLEASE NOTE:- The price for adverts in this magazine is £10 per single and £25 per set of four

Winter Thrushes - by Jonathan Bye

The summer swallows may have long gone to Africa but there are plenty of other colourful birds that have flown in to our neighbourhood, taking their place. Fieldfares and Redwings are members of the thrush family and can be seen in big flocks in our hedges and gardens now. They have left their cold Scandinavian and Russian breeding grounds for our milder winter months and find lots to eat here.

Fieldfares are large, noisy thrushes with striking grey heads and a love of fruit – especially hawthorn berries. Despite their size, fieldfares can be quite shy – unless snow makes them really hungry when they will come into our gardens.

Redwings are much smaller thrushes, with red sides and a creamy coloured stripe above the eye. They have a similar diet to fieldfares and often form flocks together. Grassland and hedgerows are the places to see these birds that overwinter here.

Blackbirds are well known resident members of the thrush family but we often see far more of them in winter because they migrate here in the same way as redwings and fieldfares.

To attract thrushes into gardens this year you can always put out apple peelings and cores, not forgetting the daily need for water, of course. Thinking more in the long-term, planting berry bearing shrubs such as hawthorn, cotoneaster and crab apples will provide shelter and food. These birds will eventually head back to breed in northerly and easterly regions but they will be with us until spring so there's plenty of time to become familiar with winter thrushes.

Question:- Can you name the other two thrushes that we see around Sutton St James all year? - Answer of back cover.

History of Boxing Day

Through the ages Christmas Boxes were used in different ways.

To protect ships During the Age of Exploration, when great sailing ships were setting off to discover new land, A Christmas Box was used as a good luck device. It was a small container placed on each ship while it was still in port. It was put there by a priest, and those crewmen who wanted to ensure a safe return would drop money into the box. It was then sealed up and kept on board for the entire voyage. If the ship came home safely, the box was handed over to the priest in the exchange for the saying of a Mass of thanks for the success of the voyage. The Priest would keep the box sealed until Christmas when he would open it to share the contents with the poor.

To help the poor An 'Alms Box' was placed in every church on Christmas Day, into which worshippers placed a gift for the poor of the parish. These boxes were always opened the day after Christmas, which is why that day became known as Boxing Day.

A present for the workers Many poorly paid workers were required to work on Christmas Day and took the following day off to visit their families. As they prepared to leave, their employers would present them with Christmas boxes. During the late 18th century, Lords and Ladies of the manor would "box up" their leftover food, or sometimes gifts and distribute them the day after Christmas to tenants who lived and worked on their lands.

And the tradition still continues today The tradition of giving money to workers still continues today. It is customary for householders to give small gifts or monetary tips to regular visiting trades people and for employers to give a Christmas bonus to employees. Schools across the country gather together gifts to be put in Christmas Boxes that are sent to poorer countries.

Interesting Christmas Fact The Christmas boxes were made from clay and were necessarily made in the shape of a box. They were often hollow clay balls with a slit in the top.

Did you Know? The Three Wise Men should not be included in the nativity scene until January 6th which is Three King's Day. In Spain and the Canary Islands the arrival of the three kings is celebrated on the night of 5th January by huge a procession watched my everyone as the kings arrive at the village or town centre, handing out gifts of sweets and coins and it is that night when the children receive their presents as did the baby Jesus not on Christmas day itself which is a family day. The nativity scene is traditionally not taken down until Candlemas on 2nd of February.

Christmas Customs

Many of our Christmas customs began long before Jesus was born. They came from earlier festivals which had nothing to do with the Christian church. Long time ago people had mid-winter festivals when the days were shortest and the sunlight weakest. They believed that their ceremonies would give the sun back its power. The Romans, for example, held the festival of Saturnalia around 25 December. They decorated their homes with evergreens to remind them of Saturn, their harvest god, to return the following spring. On lst December, the old Town Crier of Colchester would announce following the customary bell ringing:

Cold December has set in Poor people's backs are clothed thin, The trees are bare, The birds are mute: A pint of purl would very well suit (purl is an ancient strongly brewed un-hopped ale)

Some of these customs and traditions were adopted by early Christians as part of their celebrations of Jesus' birthday.

Is it Bad Luck to leave the decorations up after Twelfth Night?

Long ago it was thought that leaving the decorations up would cause a disaster. The people of East Anglia and other parts of Britain believed that tree-spirits lived in the holly, ivy, mistletoe and other evergreens that they used to decorate their houses. The greenery was brought into the house to provide a safe haven for the tree-spirits during the harsh midwinter days. Once this period was over it was necessary to return the greenery back outside to release the tree-spirits into the countryside once again. Failure to do this would mean that vegetation would not be able to start growing again (spring would not return) leading to an agricultural disaster. It was also thought that, if you left the greenery in the house, the tree-spirits would cause mischief in the house until they were released. (But In the reign of Victoria decorations came down on Twelfth Night and were burned to kill any evil spirits) In some countries however, up to the 19th century, people kept decorations of holly, ivy, box, yew, laurel and mistletoe in their homes until Candlemas Day on February 2nd, and traditionally the end of the Christmas season, a full 40 days after the birth of Jesus. But here in Britain the 12th Night superstition persists and even today people still feel uneasy about leaving the Christmas decorations up after Twelfth Night. Despite decorations now being made of foil or paper, and even though the tree-spirits are long forgotten, the superstition still survives.

Great Fen - Visit a Winter Wildlife Haven

If you fancy a day out to blow the cobwebs away Winter can be a very good time to see wildlife and a visit to Great Fen is as near as you can get to a wildlife wilderness. Winds can be harsh as they sweep unhindered across a vast bare landscape, but on clear days, with the sun low in the sky, colours seem brighter and clearer. The flocks of wintering wildfowl on the meres in Holme and Woodwalton Fens become larger and more vocal: listen for the whistle of Wigeon, sometimes drowned out by the yelping of Greylag Geese. You will be very lucky to glimpse an Otter, but Chinese Water Deer and Muntjac are frequent. If there is a fall of snow, mammal tracks can give away the presence of Foxes, Rabbits, Badgers, and Deer as well as a range of small mammals such as Voles and Mice. These are the prey that Barn Owls and Kestrels will be searching for and these can often be seen from the north bank of Woodwalton Fen. As the climate warms Little Egrets are increasingly colonising southern England. The odd individual are already being seen at the Great Fen but the new habitats may mean that this attractive bird becomes a regular visitor, and perhaps a breeder too. Other species of Egrets and Herons could well colonise the Fen. These tall, white waterbirds are rare in the UK, with under fifty birds wintering each year, and less than 10 breeding pairs but we are lucky enough to have a pair settled near our village and I have seen them myself - a beautiful sight! The Sutton St James fundraiser for McMillan Nurses

A big thank you to everyone who helped keep this annual fundraiser going this year. So far over £900 has been raised with more donations still coming in. Fundraising events were held by the school, the Good Companions and the Baptist Church in memory of Jean Garner who has run an annual fundraiser for many years for this charity. This sum includes donations from, The Hat and Feathers, Jeanette's Hairdressers and Roffes Butchers.

Advent Tradition before Advent we celebrate 'Stir Up Sunday' so called from the first two words of the collect 'Stir up, O Lord, we beseech Thee, the hearts of Thy faithful people'. The timing coincides with the traditional ritual of preparing the family's Christmas pudding. Each member of the family would ceremoniously stir the rich pudding mixture three times in the direction of the sun's path - a biblical association with the Holy Trinity and the Three Wise Men.: The start of the Church Year in the western tradition begins on the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day. Young Residents Deal with Litter Problem

Litter still seems to be a problem in our village. Resident Rachael Denham writes: Whilst walking to school my daughter Abigail, aged 7 was not happy with all the litter that she had seen on the small journey to school so took it upon herself to ask the head of school if she could borrow the litter picker at the weekend and collect all the litter. This was done by both my girls, Abigail and her five year old sister Ruth. Abigail herself sent in this letter to the Village News: I think people should put their rubbish in the bin because it's not only messy but encourages rats. Litter is also harmful to nature. I am 7 years old but would not put my rubbish on the floor. My six year old sister Ruth and myself have borrowed the litter picker from our school to pick up your rubbish. Please put your rubbish in the bin or take it home so that we can play at home instead of cleaning the streets. Thank you, Ruth and Abigail Denham : Well done girls - an example to us all.

Why do children hang up Christmas stockings?

Father Christmas once dropped some gold coins while coming down the chimney. The coins would have fallen through the ash grate and been lost if they hadn't landed in a stocking that had been hung out to dry. Since that time children have continued to hang out stockings in hopes of finding them filled with gifts.

A Surprise in the Stable - By Emma Adair of Sutton St James

For some time I had been looking to buy a good quality traditional Gypsy Cob to show when I came across a well known breeder on the Internet and saw a picture of a beautiful mare called Elsa. I travelled the 160 plus miles to view her the very next day, and when we finally got there and I saw Elsa I knew she was the one for me. It was love at first sight!

I spent all afternoon with her, fussing her, walking her up and down, taking loads of pictures of us that I would treasure forever, as the first day I saw her! It was decided I was definitely having her and she was delivered the following Sunday! I couldn't believe it, I was so happy, Elsa was all mine and we soon got into a routine as she was the most loving, kind, gentle Filly you could ever wish to meet. I started breaking her in and we were doing really well then a couple of months later I had the vet out to do Elsa's vaccinations and had a huge surprise. Elsa was in foal! I could not believe it at first and phoned the breeder who said it was highly unlikely but the vet booked a scan anyway - just to make sure.

Thursday morning, the day of the scan, my mum and I went down to the yard to sort Elsa, it was still dark, and we were in a bit of a hurry so I went into the feed room and Mum carried on to the stable, a few minutes later I heard her say "Oh my gosh!" I shouted "What's wrong?" I immediately thought something was wrong with Elsa and rushed to the feed room door, as I put my head out of the door I could see Elsa looking over the stable door, with her ears pricked looking happy enough.

I thought nothing serious could be wrong, but I went and looked anyway and that moment I looked over that stable door I will never forget! Next to Elsa was a little black face with a white star and two brown eyes. I couldn't believe what I was seeing! Elsa had had a black filly foal with a perfect white star! After always admiring Davey Ward's Black Stallion the breeder confirmed to me that my foal was his daughter! Although I didn't need them to tell me as she looks very much like him. I could not believe it, after searching for over two years for my gorgeous Elsa I now have two of the most beautiful Gypsy Cobs ever with some of the best Gypsy Cob bloodlines in the world!

Written by Emma Adair
Illustrated by Peter Glover

My beautiful Filly foal is now nine months old and I have named her Autumn. She's the friendliest, cheekiest filly on the yard despite be the youngest by far. I plan to show Elsa and Autumn this season and everyone can follow their progress and adventures on Facebook www.facebook.com/elsasblackbeauty this is regularly updated with updates/photos/videos. They are both already being sponsored by Just Neigh.

To find out more about Just Neigh go to: www.justneigh.co.uk Both Elsa and Autumn have featured in the July Issue of PONY Magazine and now feature in a short children's story called 'Elsa and Autumn Go To a Show' which is available to purchase in print from 'Just Neigh' or as a download from Amazon.

Picture Perfect

Jennifer Garbutt of Sutton St James was delighted to find she had won the vote for the public's favourite picture at the Sutton Bridge Art exhibition this year. Jennifer started painting five years ago using watercolours with help from local artist Geoff de Roux, but soon found that pastels were more to her liking and under the tuition of Peter Dalzeil at his Thursday morning class at the Lincolnshire Gallery, Spalding her talents really started to shine through. "I never dreamed I would ever win anything for my work," says Jennifer "and I am really flattered that the public voted for my picture." The class takes place every Thursday so if you want to see Jennifer's work in progress or even fancy having a go yourself come along and join the class for a coffee, you would be most welcome.

Jennifer is often asked to take commissions for pets and family portraits and can be contacted either through the Lincolnshire gallery or through this magazine.

Fascinating Facts

Wearing black does make your bum look smaller! The human eye can only perceive shapes if the object appears in different shades or colours. It is easier to notice wrinkles on a piece of light clothing than on a dark one. Thus in black clothing the shadows are barely discernible and the shape appears flat. The problem is that this only works when viewing directly from behind. When in profile, the backside will still reveal its true dimensions. The effect of shadows on the human face also explains why people of a darker complexion appear to age better than those with pale skin. Wrinkles are visible by the shadows they create and are therefore harder to see on dark skin. (Now where did I put that bottle of overnight tan!)

Ten per cent of the weight of a 2 year old mattress is dustmites and their droppings. (Wish I hadn't been told that!)

Walt Disney modelled Peter Pan's Tinkerbelle on Marilyn Monroe.

Until the 19th century tooth extractions were usually performed by barbers. (Glad I wasn't wanting a haircut back then!)

If a statue in the park of a person on a horse has both front legs in the air, the person died in battle; if the horse has one front leg in the air, the person died as a result of wounds received in battle; if the horse has all four legs on the ground, the person died of natural causes.

Clans of long ago that wanted to get rid of their unwanted people without killing them used to burn their houses down - hence the expression "to get fired." (Hope they were insured!)

The word "samba" means "to rub navels together."

The little bags of netting for gas lanterns (called 'mantles') are radioactive--so much so that they will set off an alarm at a nuclear reactor. (Lucky there were no nuclear reactors in Victorian time!)
